CLEAN UP THE FILTH.

The grand jury made some very timely suggestions last week in reference to the sanitary condition of this town and the board of health, or whoever has the handling of such matters, should see that they are complied with without a moment's delay. Spring is right upon us and now is the time to clean up.

The grand jury called attention to the deplorable condition found around numerous barns within the town limits and casual observation shows that the grand jurors have not overstated the facts. The owners of these places should be notified to give their premises a thorough renovation and then if it is not done, legal steps should be taken to compel them to. The condition of some of the vaults in the business section of the city are disease breeders of the worst kind and should not be neglected before the warm weather comes on.

The authorities should demand a wholesale cleaning up of the town from one end to the other to safeguard the health of the community; there should be no disease germs lurking about; they can be destroyed by removing the filth which exists in some places. If every citizen of Pioche takes a hand in this cleaning up business, there will be no sickness here next summer. Now get busy.

SALT LAKE'S NEW EXCHANGE.

Salt Lake is to have another mining stock exchange which is to be launched under the title of the Utah Stock & Mining Exchange. It is said the new organization starts out with a good cash balance in its treasury; also a good membership. But we have some doubt about its success in the end. Opposition to the Salt Lake Stock & Mining exchange was undertaken several years ago; but the opposition did not last long. The organization undertook to prolong life by washing sales and doing other things which placed it in a position where the public lost what confidence it had in the undertaking and it died.

One of the reasons advanced for the existence of a new exchange is the fact that the membership in the older body is limited to seventy persons and that these memberships have been bought up and held at such high prices that anyone having a burning desire to become a full fledged stock broker must have a small fortune at his disposal to begin with. Another reason advanced is that there is danger of changing the financial center of the city to about two blocks further south; unless something is done to head it off. The old exchange is going to move to new quarters on what is known as Exchange Place where it is to be housed in a magnificent building of its own, and some of the business men "further up town" don't like to see the change made. We fear that the new exchange will have a hard time to make a stick of it.

A MATTER OF RECORD.

"If all the laws of the country were strictly enforced there would be very little need of new ones," says the Salt Lake Mining Review. "And what good purpose does any law serve if it is not enforced. It becomes a detriment instead of a help."

"The mining laws, while not all the should be, would answer very well if they were put in force. One law in particular, not in the Utah code, which provides for annual reports from all mining companies, is a good one, but the majority take it as a joke and but few comply with it. In Nevada the enforcement of this measure has been extremely lax. A ruling has lately been made inflicting a fine of $100 for every month that the report is delinquent. The fine will probably be collected in the same manner in which the original law has been enforced."

"If the present Utah legislature would do a lasting good to Utah's mining industry, it could adopt no better way than to erect a measure along these lines and provide an iron-clad means of its enforcement. The operations, the financial standing mining companies should be a matter of public record. No other matter of public record. No other single condition would be such an important factor in making Utah an ideal mining territory, in drawing capital to the state and in greatly increasing legitimate mining business."

"Make the law and then enforce it."

Editor Higgins neglects to mention that the Nevada law respecting these matters has a tinge of class legislation about it by providing for the publication of these notices in daily newspapers to the exclusion of the weekly publications.
